A MESSAGE FROM JANE

I have personal reasons for creating Your Story.Your Legacy.[®]

In 1991 when my father was ill with ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease) he told me, "Before I die... I want to tell my life story." Home on emergency leave, I interviewed him while his voice was still strong. He died two and a half years later. Our family has more than five hours of wonderful recorded stories to remind us of him.

"Before I die ... I want to tell my life story."

My experience includes 15 years of in-depth interviewing for both my television show One on One featuring professional athletes, and Forefront featuring notable San Diego business leaders, artists and philanthropists. I found my joy and niche in helping to reveal those interesting, personal, and unexpected aspects of the guest's life that had often never been shared, usually because no one had ever asked.

I had "interview Mom" on my to-do list for the 20 years since my dad passed away. Other than snippets on vacation videos, I put it off. For her 90th birthday party in 2014, I finally produced a 20-minute "One on One." More than 75 friends and family watched, laughed and cried as they learned and embraced her and her story.

I believe in documenting our journeys for our children and ourselves. I have published a book about my life and work as a broadcast journalist and sports biographer. Now my baby girl Lily Ann will be able to read my book and watch the videos of her grandparents to understand her family's roots. To me, that's the value of having Your Story.Your Legacy.[®] as part of your archives.

From the day you were born through your twilight years, your journey is uniquely yours with triumphs and failures, joy and sadness, lessons learned and wisdom to pass on.

Your Story. Your Legacy.

Give your children, grandchildren, family, friends, business or organization the gift of Your Story.Your Legacy.[®]

Whether someone has known you for decades or only a short while, hearing your background and experiences in a beautiful, high-quality presentation is meaningful.

Success can bring financial gain including the ability to buy almost anything, except time. Your Story.Your Legacy.[®] provides the opportunity to talk about your life and your perspective about landmarks on your journey. Whether in an “uncut” interview, a polished and produced 30-to-60 minute program with photos and narrative, a Legacy Video Letter, with additional family members, or another final form tailored to your needs, the production is part of your archives to share as you choose.

Invest in a piece of living history for yourself or a loved one, either healthy or perhaps older or ill, whose time may be short but whose spirit is strong. Capture their voice, expressions and story before it's too late.

Sometimes people do not want to tell their stories to a friend or family member, concerned they've “already heard it” or that it might be seen as bragging or even boring. So place that process in the hands of Jane Mitchell—a proven, compassionate and acclaimed interviewer and producer—to draw out aspects of Your Story.Your Legacy.[®] that might otherwise be lost.

About Jane Mitchell

Since girlhood, Jane Mitchell knew she wanted to be a broadcast journalist in order to tell people's stories. Never did she imagine that journey—everything from covering rattlesnake roundups in Texas and weathering tornadoes in Oklahoma—would lead her to the world of sports, and helping to create Channel 4 San Diego, the TV home of the San Diego Padres.

During her 15-year program One on One, she made her mark as an interviewer whose insightful questions and player portraits presented the human side of sports icons. Her sports and non-sports work has garnered many accolades, including 27 Emmy® Awards.

She is the author of One on One: My Journey with Hall of Famers, Fan Favorites and Rising Stars with the Foreword by Dick Enberg and Tony Gwynn. In honor of her father who died of Lou Gehrig's Disease, she is active with the ALS Association.

Since 2012 she launched her boutique media company, covered the Olympics in London and delivered her best production yet—her baby Lily Ann.

About Jane's Interview Style...

“Jane is genuinely interested in the person’s story. There’s ownership of your story through her.” –TREVOR HOFFMAN (former MLB Pitcher)

“[Jane] ...you make the interview process easy. You’re always well prepared and the questions are thoughtful. The final shows were good. I remember thinking they were on target, informative and fun.”
–JUNIOR SEAU (former NFL Linebacker)

“My father was more comfortable revealing his life story to Jane than he would have been speaking to his own children. Imagine my son and my grandchildren being able to hear the story of how their ancestors immigrated to the U.S. from Italy, as told by their great grandfather.”
–TOM CATLIN (Client)

“Jane, you have an amazing talent to reach into the core of the person you are interviewing with your heartfelt interviewing techniques. You made us feel so comfortable like we were talking to a long lost friend.”
–WENDY MERILA (wife of former MLB Bullpen Catcher)

“Wholesome. If there was one word to describe the whole thing, it would be that, because Jane put it at a comfort level where you kind of let your guard down.” –MIKE CAMERON (former MLB Outfielder)

“Jane made me feel relaxed and allowed me to say what was on my mind, and the direction of the story wasn’t what she wanted it to be, it was the real you.” –ADRIAN GONZALEZ (MLB First Baseman)

“Jane did so much research and was so thorough, but the process was very enjoyable. I trusted her completely to accurately portray who I am and who my family is, and that really says a lot!”

–TINA MICKELSON (PGA Golf Professional, Broadcaster)

“For years I’ve been writing about my childhood with my gypsy-spirited mother. A few people have read it, but now, at 90, it means so much to have my whole story on video, knowing my family — and even my great grandchildren — can remember me “in real life” thanks to my daughter’s expertise.” –ANN MITCHELL
